Calhoun County Public Health Department

Battle Creek, Michigan

The Calhoun County Public Health Department (CCPHD) is one of 45 local public health jurisdictions in Michigan fulfilling the legal role as detailed in the Public Health Code. The scope of health care services provided include communicable disease, environmental health, and primary and preventive health care.

CCPHD monitors Calhoun County's health status to identify health problems, diagnose and investigate health problems and hazards in the community, inform, educate, and empower people about health risks and mobilize community partnerships to identify and solve problems. CCPHD develops policies and plans that support individual and community health efforts and researches new insights and innovative solutions to health problems.

Clinical Services. The clinical services division provides Sexually Transmitted Infection (STI) testing and treatment, HIV/AIDS testing and counseling, and partner notification for those who test positive or who are contacts to someone with a positive test Immunizations are disease-prevention vaccines protecting individuals from disease, reducing and often times nearly eliminating disease.

The Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) program serves low and moderate income pregnant, breastfeeding, and postpartum women, infants, and children under age five (5) who require nutritional assistance.

Community Health Services. CCPHD's communicable disease (CD) division provides surveillance, epidemiological investigation, and prevention and control of communicable diseases including tuberculosis (TB) and norovirus.

Emergency Preparedness. CCPHD enhances Calhoun County's ability to prepare for a public health emergency due to outbreaks of infectious disease, acts of terrorism, and other public health threats and emergencies. Response plans are developed and continuously reviewed. CCPHD regularly communicates and collaborates with local and region partner organizations ensuring the safety of Calhoun County citizens.

The Fetal Infant Mortality Review (FIMR) program determines the preventable causes of infant mortality where prevention strategies are developed and implemented.

Child Services. Hearing and vision screening for students and the school community are provided to our youngest citizens. The Children's Special Health Care Services (CSHCS) program supports you as a caretaker. CSHCS provides coverage and referral for specialty services and family-centered and community-based services assisting persons with chronic health problems.

"Great Choices" teen pregnancy prevention program facilitates discussions regarding responsible sexual activity decision-making.

The School Wellness program promotes successful student learning by implementing strategies that promote student health and safety.

Environmental Health. The environmental health division addresses public health and environmental health issues including the food protection program (inspection and license processing), waste management (on-site wastewater, well, and sewage disposal system permit issuance, and household hazardous waste), and water supply (installation and Health Education. Participating in the development, organization, and implementation of chronic disease prevention and health risk reduction programs and in health related events.

The Teen Pregnancy Prevention Partnership (TP3) addresses Calhoun County's high teen pregnancy rate.

The Calhoun County Lead Task Force works to increase community awareness of lead poisoning, increase blood lead testing by physicians, and increase environmental lead risk assessments and remediation.

Tobacco. The Calhoun County Clean Indoor Air Regulation requires public and private worksites to create and implement a smoke-free policy.
